17th May 2018

Dear Parent/Carer,

You may already be aware that Nell Gwynn Nursery School and Ann Bernadt Nursery School will be participating in The Tate Exchange Project at The Tate Modern this summer. Some parents were able to attend meetings during the spring term regarding this event.

Moving forwards we want to provide you with an update and encourage you to bring your children along to this interactive art exhibition which will span the course of two afternoons. On Tuesday 26th June and Wednesday 27th June between 12pm until 6pm, Nell Gwynn and Ann Bernadt staff will facilitate workshops which children and adults will become involved in.

On Tuesday 26th June the focus will be on creating a wall out of children's mark-making, while on Wednesday 27th June, exploration of light and shade will commence through use of an overhead projector and projection dome. The idea is that everyone involved can produce art regardless of age or experience. The Tate Exchange Project will also feature other schools from Southwark, including nurseries through to secondary schools.

Our children's paintings and drawings will be displayed within The Tate Exchange, along with artwork from other Southwark schools.

In view of the fact that The Tate Modern is a public space with visitors from all parts of the country, parents/carers must accompany their own children to this event. Staff facilitating the workshops will be expected to focus on the activities outlined previously and cannot supervise children within the wider space. In light of this, we request that you indicate on the slip over the page whether you and your child/children will be taking part in The Tate Exchange Project on one or both of these days. Please note that your child's participation in the event will take place instead of attending nursery that day/s. We do of course encourage this.

In the meantime, we will display information regarding The Tate Exchange Project on our school website. Please do talk to Marie Soumah (Teaching Assistant) if you have any questions or queries.

We do hope that you are able to participate in this special event with your child/children as it is a unique opportunity not to be missed!

Kind regards,

Pippa Baker
Head of School and SENCo

Please separate slip and return to Reception.
