

CHALLENGING BEHAVIOUR WORKSHOP

Children & Young adults who feel the need to resort to behaviours; whether violent or not, is challenging for all involved. Often the way forward is seen as changing or getting rid of the undesirable behaviour.

Is it possible to take a different view & see behaviour as a form of communication then rather than getting rid of it, we can spend time trying to understand it and provide more appropriate communication methods.

This workshop will explore the issues involved when someone displays behaviours that challenge, including areas of anxiety and communication, and consider potential strategies to support all involved.
